Rescue

When a white tailed deer buck fell through the thin ice on Lake Kashagawigamog, residents from both sides of the lake came to the rescue. They pulled the flailing buck from the icy water and cared for it until it was well enough to return to the wild last Monday.

Sewer

The final report of the Dysart sewage plant expansion is out, but residents on the lake still aren't satisfied and plan to ask the Ministry of Environment for an environmental impact study.

St. Nick

Santa Claus helped warm the hearts of hundreds of area children Saturday which helped chase off the cold of a sub-zero morning. The first Minden Santa Claus Parade was a big hit on all accounts.

Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs were in Minden Saturday to help welcome Santa to town during the first Lions Santa Claus Parade. Sneezzy, Grumpy and Doc were aboard the Westside Jug City float that took first place in the Commercial category of this highly-successful parade. There were about 50 entries in the parade, which took about 45 minutes to pass any point along the route. Several hundred viewers lined the street for this festive event and more than 300 children later had an opportunity to sit on Santa's lap and whisper the Christmas wishes in his ear.

Varying ideas on rail corridor expressed at meeting

With everyone pulling in different directions, the County's Railway Corridor Committee is facing a difficult task in deciding how the property should be developed and who should be allowed to use it.

At a meeting with adjoining land-owners last week, the committee heard several dissenting views on what should be done with the 100-foot-wide strip of land that stretches from Kinmount to Haliburton village.

Committee chairman George Simmons said the County's decision to purchase the abandoned railway is viewed by many as "the smartest move Haliburton has ever made." However, the process of developing the narrow strip of land will demand tolerance. He said the county has budgeted only $10,000 for it this year. "You can't do a heck of a lot with that."

Only about 15 people turned out to the meeting, and most had differing opinions of what the county should do with the property. Most agreed that the County should keep the property, rather than sell it back to the adjoining land-owners. Many agreed that the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association should be allowed to use the line again this winter. Others wanted it preserved for non-motorized activities like hiking, horse-back riding, bicycling, cross-country skiing or dog sledding. Some wanted it turned into a roadway and one person suggested

By-law for steel plant passed by council

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Minden council has passed the controversial rezoning by-law for a metal fabrication plant in the Canning Lake area, but local residents plan to send the matter before an Ontario Municipal Board hearing.

The rezoning and Official Plan amendment will allow Hans Walter to operate his business, known as North Steel, on the 23-acre parcel of land near Ingoldsby. The industrial zoning will apply only to a five-acre parcel upon which the business will be located.

At a public meeting dealing with the rezoning last Thursday, council heard strong opposition to the proposal by people who own property in the Canning Lake area.

They expressed concerns that the location of the business will result in a decrease in the value of their properties, that North Steel poses a threat to the environment, and that the move will set a precedent for other industries to locate in the area.

Last Thursday was the third time council had passed a rezoning by-law to allow Walter's operation on the property.

The first time, in December 1988, one of the adjoining property owners, Albert Cavan, was not notified of the rezoning. As a result, council had to rescind the by-law and start over.

The by-law was passed again and an appeal was sent to the Ontario Municipal Board by neighbouring property owners. The hearing was scheduled for last Thursday, but the township cancelled the hearing on the advice of planning consultant Bob Lehman, who wanted the township to redefine the zoning by-law and pass an accompanying Official Plan amendment.

The by-law which council passed permits only the operation of the steel fabrication business and an accessory dwelling unit. The shop operation includes the cutting, bending, welding, assembling, painting and warehousing of steel products.

The issue has been an emotional one for the neighbouring property owners, and tempers flared during last week's public meeting.

The meeting had barely begun when one property owner, Joseph Curtin, objected to the proceedings because he said the rezoning had not been advertised, just the Official Plan amendment.

Curtin told council it should proceed with the Official Plan amendment but postpone discussions on the rezoning application until it had been properly circulated.

However, when Cavan said the rezoning had been listed on the notices which went out to adjoining property owners, Curtin withdrew his objection.

Chris Lloyd, another of Walter's neighbours, then objected to council that Walter was not present at the meeting to answer questions.

Minden Reeve Ray Moore agreed that Walter should be in attendance but said council could not force him to be there.

Lloyd suggested that the meeting be adjourned until a time when Walter would attend, and if he still wouldn't show up the application for the rezoning "should fall by the wayside."

Moore said Walter's presence was not necessary for the meeting to be held and said the application would proceed regardless of the applicant's absence.

"There's no reason for Mr. Walter to be here," said councillor Bob Sisson. "We're just doing the same thing as last time."

Lloyd said that if council passed the rezoning and Official Plan amendment,

Deer's life saved by rescue from icy water

A dramatic rescue by residents on both sides of Lake Kashagawigamog, and a heavy dose of tender loving care, helped save the life of a white tail buck deer last Sunday (November 26).

The drama started at about 11 a.m. when several residents on the south shore of the lake near the narrows at Deer Lodge noticed a deer attempting to swim westerly along the lake. The path of open water had led to a patch of frozen ice stretching from shore to shore. The deer, either confused by the circumstances or nearing exhaustion, struggled to swim into the ice, breaking the thin crust, but unable to gain a foothold on the surface.

It was at this point that John Teljeur and family, owners of Deer Lodge received a phone call from the owners of Bonnie View Lodge across the narrows. They had noticed the deer and had wanted to assist it, but the ice had closed in on their portion of the lake and they were unable to launch a boat.

The Teljeurs responded immediately. Their own bay and usual boat docking area was locked in ice as well, but they managed to haul an aluminum boat across a rocky point to open water. As they set out to rescue the deer, one of their oars broke and they were forced to return to shore. There they secured an old, somewhat reliable, outboard motor to the back of their boat. The motor was balky and further delayed their efforts to reach the deer.

In the meantime, Jerry Walker and a friend set off from the south shore of the lake and had reached the struggling animal. They had secured a rope to its eight point antlers and were attempting to help the deer keep its head above water while moving it closer to shore.

"It was obvious the deer had been in the water for a long time," John Teljeur Jr. recalls. He noted the animal appeared exhausted, had trouble keeping its head above water and offered little reaction when approached by the boats.

As Jerry Walker and companion attempted to pull the animal toward the shore, the animal slipped below the surface of the chilly water on a number of occasions.

Gathered around the deer, administering mega-doses of TLC are, from the left, Charlie Teljeur, Barry Walker, Jerry Walker, John Teljeur Sr. and Dave Ferguson. The treatment obviously worked because the deer, which spend a number of hours in the chilly waters of Lake Kashagawigamog, survived its ordeal and left for its usual address Monday Morning.

Fortunately, the Teljeur boat arrived shortly and while one crew held the animal's head above the water, the other boat attempted to move the flotilla toward the shore.

Ministry of Natural Resources Conservation Officers David Ferguson and Barry Walker had arrived on the scene, after the local office was called about the situation. They cautioned the rescuers to be careful as the animal reached the shore since it may bolt once it felt a firm ground underfoot.

However, the ordeal in the water had been too much. Exhausted, and probably with a rapidly dropping body temperature, the deer offered no resistance as they lifted the animal from the water.

The prognosis for an animal in this state would normally be very poor. However, those people who struggled so hard to rescue the animal from the water were not about to let its life slip away without a fight.

The rescuers immediately applied hands-on therapy covering the animal with blankets and massaging it to stimulate circulation. The stiff northerly wind was not helping their efforts so the animal was moved to a more sheltered location near one of the Deer Lodge cabins. There a plastic canopy was thrown over the deer and a small portable heater with a fan was placed under the covering. The crew continued to massage the animal, and while it continued to breathe, there was little other signs to indicate their efforts were yielding results.

This hands-on treatment continued non-stop until 4:30 p.m. Exhausted from their own efforts and resigned to the fact they they had done all they could, the animal was moved again to an empty shed used to house the resorts ducks. A bed of hay and straw was laid out on the floor and the animal placed on it, and covered with blankets.

John Teljeur visited the shed every hour during the evening to check on the progress of the animal. At one point, the deer had stood up and John Sr. has the mark to prove it. As he entered the shed he flipped on the overhead light, startling the deer, which bumped sharply against him. He quickly turned out the light and slipped out of the shed nursing a slightly bruised side, but nonetheless pleased with the sign the animal was beginning to recover.

The door was left open overnight. When John visited the shed first thing Monday morning, the building was empty. In the snow outside a set of deer footprints headed off toward the forest, north of the resort.

It was an exhausting exercise and one which, at a certain point, appeared to be without hope, but their efforts, in the end, yielded results.

"It was heartening to be a part of this," John Sr. commented. The deer has survived, and a co-operative effort of resort owners, residents and the ministry personnel combined to return him to the forest." He noted that among those who helped rescue the deer were hunters and those strongly opposed to deer hunting. John also pointed out the deer had, through serendipity, chosen his resort Deer Lodge, for his temporary overnight stay.

Those involved in the rescue of the deer included John and Marilyn Teljeur, their sons John Jr. and Charlie, Deer Lodge staff member Gina Deighton, Jerry Walker and his companion, and Ministry of Natural Resources Conservation Officers Dave Ferguson and Barry Walker. (We have been unable to contact Jerry Walker to determine the name of his companion. We apologize.)

Editorial

Haliburton County Council's decision to purchase the abandoned railway line was clearly a smart idea. But now that the time has come to start making decisions about how this property should be developed, committee members must be wondering what they've gotten themselves into.

About 15 people attended a meeting last week to discuss the fate of this property, when the committee was flooded with concerns, objections and differing opinions. Further complicating the matter is the fact that all the issues raised at this meeting have merit.

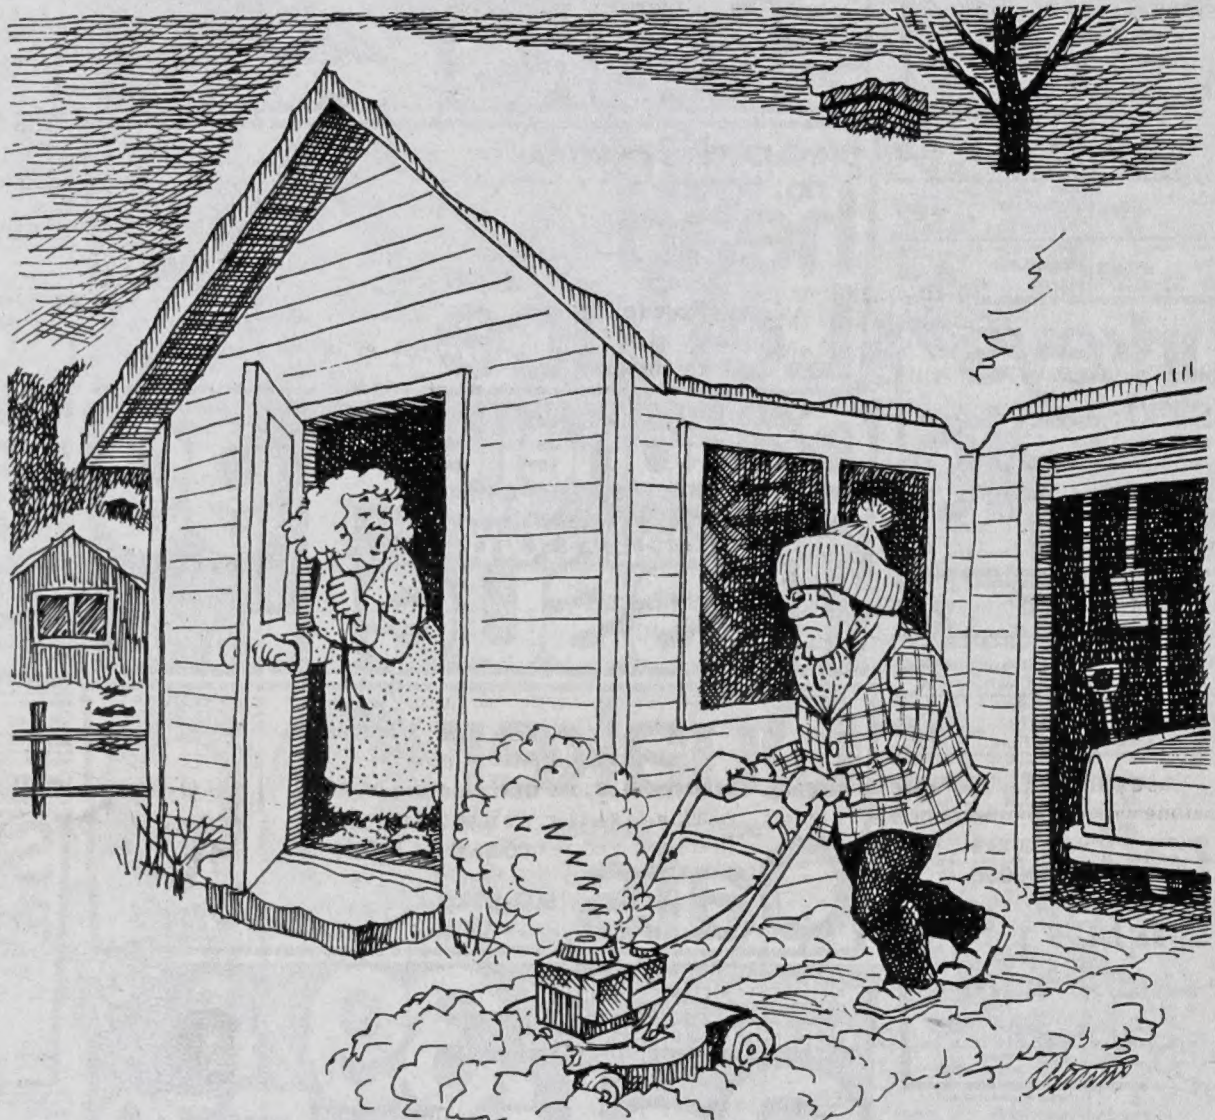

The decision to buy the narrow strip of land stretching out between Kinmount and Haliburton was the easy part of this process. Developing the land won't be so simple, considering the dissenting views of what should take place.

Some of the suggested recreational uses for the property are snowmobiling, hiking, cross-country skiing, horseback riding and bicycling. Since the property is 100 feet wide, it is possible to have multiple tracks put in place to accommodate competing interest. However, this will require a big financial investment by the County, something that is unlikely in the immediate future.

On the other hand, there are some who would like to see part of the corridor used as a road. In Snowdon Township, where the corridor deviates from County Road 1 to follow the Burnt River, a road would open up a large area of prime undeveloped property. Unfortunately, it would also eliminate the potential for recreational use of this, the most attractive part of the corridor.

These are a few of the considerations this committee will have to weigh over the next few years. And regardless of what the committee finally decides to do with the property, there are bound to be some unhappy people.

There was, however, one very positive outcome from last week's meeting. Of the adjoining property owners in the room, only two expressed a desire to have the land turned over to them. This shows that most have an interest in having the corridor developed into something that will be of benefit to everyone in the county.

Some environmental good news for a change

Can you stand to read one more column about what man is doing to the environment?

Wait! Before you fast-forward to the sports section or wad up the newspaper and throw it in the wastebasket, just bear with me a moment here.

This is a different what-man-is-doing-to-the-environment column.

It's about the good things that are happening.

Don't look now, folks, but I believe we are beginning to win a few rounds here and there.

Now, don't get me wrong. We're not out of the swamp or anything like that. The rain forests are still burning, too many of our lakes are still turning to vinegar, Glad bags full of used Pampers and aerosol cans are still piling up on our landfill sites and the chemical stew we inhale with each breath is still several light years from pure mountain air, but here and there, if you look really hard, you might

by Arthur Black

see the odd flower sprouting out there in no man's land.

There is light at the end of the tunnel, and it just might turn out to be sunshine.

Whence cometh my Pollyanna optimism? Oh, just one or two things that have appeared in the news over the past few days. You in the market for a little environmental good news? Help yourself.

ITEM: Canada has sent its first corporate polluter to jail. His name is Sam Siapas. He own Best Plating Incorporated in Toronto--a company that has been charged literally dozens and dozens of time with pouring poisons into the environment. Siapas got away with it 48 times. On the 49th, the court decided he wasn't getting the message so they threw him in the slammer.

Mister Siapas is currently cooling his heels in the Don Jail, where he is expected to reside for the next six months.

It might be wishful thinking, but I like to believe I can hear a chorus of self-conscious "ahems" and much nervous tapping of gold Mont Blanc pens in various corporate boardrooms across the land.

Speaking of corporate boardrooms, did you catch that guy spouting off on the environment the other day? He was ranting about the Temagami region of Ontario, where the last stands of red and white pine in the province are slated to face the

Praise of Rotary Bingo is appreciated

Editor:

The tribute to Rotary Bingo was a real morale booster to the guys who work on it and it gives me, as Bingo Chairman, the opportunity to express our gratitude to all the loyal Bingo players who made it possible for us to build the prize structure to its present high level and at the same time generate funds to put back into worthwhile projects in our community. While Bingo and Nevada are not the only things the club does, they are the major source of our community service funds.

Rotary ordinarily does not publicize its good deeds or brag about its accomplishments and maybe this is a mistake, but part of being a member is the self satisfaction that you are helping make your community a better place to live.

So keep on coming out Bingo players, we appreciate your support.

Bingo Chairman,

Bothered by editorial policy

Editor:

It perturbs me to think that your editorial policies would allow Mr. Stickland's kind of letter to be published in The Times. His ill will towards The Echo goes so far as to actually post his discrediting letter around town with your banner heading his photocopied page. It appears to the public that The Times is trying to gain points by discrediting its highly reputable competitor. To say the least, it leaves a poor taste. The Echo would not display this kind of discourtesy. I would think that an editor, more than anyone, understands that reporters cannot be in all places all of the time and mistakes are made in the hectic atmosphere of a publishing office.

As a parent of school aged children, I, along with many other concerned parents are very much aware of the "horrendous implications" of a school bus going through a stop sign. The police news release following the accident reported only that there were six fog related incidents that week. I understand that for reasons which Mr. Stickland mentions in his letter, no more can be said until after the trial. In the meantime, it could be more helpful if your reader directed his anger towards the appropriate authorities.

Lynn Duncombe, Haliburton.

Note: As the banner on this page reads, The Times welcomes signed letters to the editor on subjects of interest to our readers. Because of the nature of Peter Stickland's letter, we insisted the author first send a copy to The Echo before we would consider it. Since the letter was not published in The Echo, we felt compelled to grant Mr. Stickland the opportunity to voice his concerns in The Times.

Our decisions on what letters are suitable for print are not based on whether or not we like or agree with the author. If this was the case, your letter may not have appeared in this paper. The Letters column is open to all readers. It's their forum for expression and we believe it should not be denied.

Had Stickland's letter been directed at The Times or any other establishment in the county, it would have been published here. To deny a person access to the Letters column solely on the basis of who the writer is addressing is poor editorial policy.

chainsaw. I copied down some of his choicer quotes:

"Standing amid such natural beauty, I recalled the wood panelling in board rooms across this country, and I wondered if my children, or their children, would ever see a natural forest."

Well, you get the drift. This guy--Jon Grant, his hame is--went on to blast big business and government of raping the land and leaving it covered in filth.

All of which would be just one more depressing environmental sermonette if it sprang from the lips of a tree hugger like Farley Mowat or David Suzuki. But Jon Grant is not a card-carrying environmentalist. He is president of Quaker Oats Company of Canada--and the first major Canadian businessman I've heard speak honestly and forthrightly about the mess we're in and the culpability of big business in putting us there.

One last upbeat environmental story. This one concerns the stopping of a $3 billion dollar hydroelectric dam which would have flooded an area of exceptional natural beauty, killed untold numbers of wildlife, and polluted the drinking water of large human populations living nearby. A group of environmentalists toiled for six years to block construction of the dam. Last week, parliament voted to terminate them project.

And where did this happen--in democratic, forward-looking Canada? In environmentally conscious Sweden or Denmark?

Nope. It happened in reactionary old Hungary, a country where air pollution and water contamination have traditionally been considered a minor industrial cost and environmentalists are routinely arrested for being 'unpatriotic'.

And after that, perhaps the Hungarians could come over here and teach us how to do the same for the St. Lawrence, the Fraser and are not-so-Great Lakes.

Widening roads the only solution

Editor:

After reading the rhetoric both pro and con from the experts who know all about the traffic problem on Main St., I thought maybe it was time to voice my observations from someone who lives on Main St. in a residential-commercial property located between "The Rock" and the proposed bowling alley.

We have lived here almost seven years and are all in favour of growth and development as long as proper planning, good taste and common sense prevail.

Traffic has increased since we first came here especially in the summer and we've noticed in the last two or three years quite a lot of night traffic and a good percentage, day and night, don't observe the speed limits as they come around the rock. As a result, in summer we always turn right out of our driveway and hope to get into the traffic flow before a vehicle comes roaring around the corner behind us.

There are many squeals of brakes when a car makes a left at The Medical Centre and occasionally a bump. The ditch in front of our house has had at least six vehicles in it over the last 18 months and one raced across our driveway and into a tree on the site of the proposed bowling alley. A large part of our problem is we have a 50-foot-wide driveway that is a favourite turn around for vehicles at all hours; talk station for two vehicles when they wish to converse with each other without getting out; parking spot for large trucks, and handy back up from across the road so they can drive into traffic safely without backing on to the road.

In the winter there are a few snowmobiles who use the road for a race track and our concern is there is no way they could come to a safe stop if they suddenly found themselves behind another vehicle either stopped or travelling at a slower rate.

Thankfully it is only five or six. The majority use the designated trails and are an asset to our community.

Perhaps it is too simple but in my humble opinion we don't need a survey to tell us we have a traffic problem. The only long term solution is to widen the road to three and preferably four lanes and at the same time eliminate the blind spot caused by The Rock by removing it. Then perhaps we could have a viable Main Street with attractive places of business and good access without interfering with regular traffic movement.

I realize it will cost money but think of the cost 10 years from now when we may have no other choice.

One other point as a favour to visitors to our town who don't arrive lying on their sides would be to turn the letters MINDEN right side up at the entrance to Minden.

As I said, maybe it's too simple.

Cecil Rowe,
Minden.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of November 19 to November 25.

November 19 - 3 cm snow, 4.5 pH, from Wisconsin, Michigan, and southern Ontario.

November 20 - 2 mm mixed rain and snow, 4.7

pH, from northeast Ontario.

November 23 - 3 mm mixed rain and snow, 4.9 pH, from Wisconsin and Michigan.

November 25 - 3 mm mixed rain and snow, 4.9 pH, from Ohio and southern Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous.

Youth must act now to change world

The 1990's have been designated the "Turnaround Decade" in our fight to preserve a now fragile biosphere.

And who has most at stake in what happens during those 10 years? Not politicians or businessmen, but today's young people. What adults do or don't do now will determine the kind of world teenagers will reach maturity in.

In October, I spoke to students in a Toronto high school.

I bluntly described the beleaguered state of the planet and the horrors that lie ahead if we don't change. Then I challenged them.

The worst scenario can be avoided, but only with a massive effort by all of us. Teenagers have to modify their ideas about the importance of cars, clothing and consumer items. They have to find out from their teachers in history, science, civics, ecology, geography and sociology how we created the environmental crisis and what options we have.

Parents of every student are important. Some of them are politicians, doctors, lawyers, business people, laborers and homemakers. And because they love their children more than anything else in the world those moms and dads must change and those students have to convince them.

The students responded powerfully with a will to act - their future is at stake, they're idealistic and they haven't yet invested in the status quo. They can change the world.

In October, Jeff Gibbs, a 22-year-old student at the University of British Columbia, established the Environmental Youth Alliance to link high school environmental groups. For information, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Jeff Gibbs, 102 West

Reflections

by Dr. David Suzuki

40th Avenue, Vancouver, B.C. V5Y 2R2.

EYA will connect groups through a newspaper featuring stories written by students and invited experts, allowing teenagers to communicate with each other, share ideas and give each other support.

The alliance also will sponsor gatherings at environmental conferences held for young people and is arranging trips to wilderness areas so teens can build new friendships, learn about ecology and meet Native elders and naturalists.

Teachers have expressed a lot of interest in EYA but the group is determined that youth will control the organization, raise money, set the agenda and control the spending. In other words, the kids will run it.

Jeff's own story is an advertisement for EYA.

Raised as a city boy, at 15 he experienced a fundamental shift in perception while on a canoe trip through the Bowron Lakes in central B.C.

"Until then," he says, "I always thought human beings were at the top of the heap. But out there, I was overwhelmed with the power of nature and how puny I was."

The next year, in 1984, that spiritual revelation took him to the Queen Charlotte Islands where "I realized that nature is incredibly complex and runs on its own agenda. If humans weren't there, it wouldn't make a bit of difference. I was blown away by the power, the mystery and the beauty of it all."

When a battle broke out over proposed logging on Meares Island off the west coast of Vancouver Island, Jeff started an environmental group called the TREE Club (Teenagers Response to Endangered Ecosystems) in his school.

About 30 students got involved and the first thing they did was to get the names of every elected member of the federal and provincial governments. Each student chose about 20 names and wrote a personal letter by hand, citing statistics and asking them to save the forest. Replies, including one from the prime minister, began to pour into the school. The students were able to tally those for and against logging Meares and focused on the undecideds.

Later, the youngsters ordered 3,000 buttons to Save South Moresby, a contentious area in the Queen Charlotte Islands. The buttons cost 20 cents apiece and were sold for $1.00. Money poured in to supplement what was raised by bake sales and car washes, in all about $7,000. The TREE Club gave some of the money to the Western Canada Wilderness Committee to print 50,000 newspapers about South Moresby and the students then helped to hand deliver them.

Involvement empowered the students.

The TREE Club organized a slide show, which they showed to schoolmates, parents and the general public. And it made more money! For two months, Club members went out twice a week and knocked on doors to talk to people about the future of South Moresby. They covered over 5,000 households.

This is power at the grassroots. EYA will link high school groups across Canada and encourage students to get involved by forming their own environmental clubs.

After all, it is their world.

Opponents vow to appeal to the OMB

the matter would again be sent to the Ontario Municipal Board.

"We know you have a war chest," said Moore.

Lloyd's objection to Walter's absence was dismissed when Walter showed up with his lawyer Brad Teichman.

The meeting could not proceed right away, however, because Curtin objected to council for inviting Walter and Teichman to sit at the council table. He objected that the proponents of the rezoning were allowed to sit with council while the opponents had to sit in the gallery.

"I'm running this meeting," Moore said. He told Curtin to sit down and let the meeting proceed. When Curtin continued to object, Teichman and Walter agreed to stand during their presentation.

Moore said Curtin "thinks he's a big wheel from the ministry who's going to tell us how to do things." Curtin is employed by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs but said he was at the meeting as a ratepayer and demanded an apology from the Reeve. He called Moore's comments "beneath contempt."

Moore refused to apologize for his statement.

Finally Teichman was able to begin his presentation in support of the rezoning.

Teichman said Walter has been operating his business across the road, in Snowdon Township, for the past four years. The steel the company sells is used by local construction contractors and is drilled, welded and painted at the plant.

Teichman said there is no manufacturing of steel involved.

Because the company orders pre-cut steel from the city, there is very little waste produced by the business. The metal filings and small pieces of scrap which result from drilling and cutting are stored in bins and collected by a scrap dealer.

The company employs between 10 and 12 full-time employees, five of whom were previously unemployed, said Teichman. The business operates from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday and occasionally on Saturdays with a limited staff.

Steel is delivered to the plant by a tractor trailer once a week with access from County Road 17. Teichman pointed out that the County Roads Department has a depot around the corner and heavy trucks are already using the road.

Since North Steel began operation, Teichman said there has been no record of complaints registered to Snowdon Township, the OPP or the health unit.

Lehman has visited the site and on November 28 he presented a planning report on the proposal to the township.

In his report, Lehman said the "relocation of the North Steel Metal Fabrication Shop would increase the distance between the cottages on Canning Lake and the industrial shop.

"The development proposed in the rezoning application is presently operating in the immediate vicinity of the proposed site and without being in conflict with the surrounding area. The proposed site in Minden would not be in conflict with the surrounding use, as much of the area consists of dense forest and the activity will primarily occur indoors."

Teichman said the dense forest will act as a buffer around the shop and said there are no residences close to the proposed site. "There is no suggestion of any impact to surrounding lands," he said.

"North Steel will offer industrial tax assessment and employment," said Teichman.

Although the rezoning allows for a 5,000-square-foot building, Walter will only be constructing a plant about 3,000 square feet in size.

Walter has received no complaints from permanent residents, said Teichman, and many of them expressed support for the proposal.

While cottagers have a vested interest in the area, Teichman said they don't live here year round. He said he wasn't suggesting that they are not entitled to the same considerations as permanent residents, but it was something council should consider when judging competing interests.

After Teichman's presentation, Gary Kapac, President of The Canning Lake Property Owners' Association, asked about the process used to cut the steel.

Walter said all of his steel comes pre-cut, and the small cuts that are made at his plant are done with a saw and a cutting torch. The saw is electric powered and uses cutting oil which circulates inside the saw. Walter said the torch uses oxygen and propane.

Moore asked Kapac to focus on specific concerns about the rezoning application and Kapac said he was concerned about the potential for damage to the environment from some of the plant's activities.

Councillor Lewis Stevens said every automotive garage in the county does more cutting than North Steel.

Dr. D. Buchnea, a former chemistry professor at the University of Toronto was at the meeting and said the fuel used in the torches is converted to water and carbon dioxide as it burns and does not pollute the air.

Walter says he lives next to the present site of the business, has his well tested twice a year and the quality of his water is good.

Cavan asked Walter if the property he presently occupies is legally zoned to permit his operations.

Walter said he is operating with a letter of permission from the Township of Snowdon.

Kapac made a presentation on behalf of his association in opposition to the rezoning.

He submitted letters from 360 property owners who are opposed to the application.

The implications of the rezoning extend beyond the five-acre parcel of land, said Kapac, because it would set a precedent and open the door for other industries to set up in the area. He said the township needs an Industrial Park close the services in the village of Minden.

Other concerns expressed by Kapac were the possibility of a detrimental effect

Neighbours fear by-law will set precedent on the environment, noise and traffic. He said the intended industrial use of the land is out of character with the neighbourhood and would have a negative impact on the value and enjoyment of surrounding properties.

At the association's general meeting in July, the members unanimously passed a resolution objecting to the rezoning. "I've never seen an issue that we feel so strongly about," said Kapac.

Kapac presented letters from other cottage associations in the area that also oppose the rezoning. They were from associations on Brady, Soyers, Horse-shoe and Kashagawigamog lakes.

In closing his presentation, Kapac asked council to turn down the application and concentrate its efforts on establishing a municipal industrial park in the township.

Cavan was the next property owner to give a presentation opposing the rezoning. He supported Kapac's request for an industrial park and said he wanted to see Walter's business stay in the township and flourish but "he picked the wrong spot."

He called lake property Minden's most valuable asset and said if council tries to "bugger around with it, you're in for a tremendous battle all the way to the Supreme Court of Canada."

Cavan said council was elected to protect the property values in the township, and not doing that would be a breach of trust. He said the property values in the area surrounding the steel plant could drop by a combined total of one million dollars.

He said if the application were approved it would go to an Ontario Municipal Board hearing.

Lloyd is Walter's closest neighbour. His property is located about 1,500 feet from the proposed site of the metal fabrication shop.

He told council that he's in the area for more than just a few weeks of the year. He's been up here almost continuously since March and hopes to continue to stay up here, "but not if I'm next to an industrial site."

Lloyd said it seems that council is no more interested in objections to the rezoning this time than they were a year ago.

"It's my observation that this council has no vision with regards to industrial development or protection of the rural areas and the environment," he said. Council has its mind set on rezoning the property, said Lloyd. "If you grant one how can you turn down the next one?" He said council is not listening to what the majority of taxpayers are saying.

Curtin said the proposed site is an inappropriate place for industry, which he described as an urban activity which should be clustered together.

He referred to Minden's Official Plan, saying the document is like the township's Charter of Rights. By rezoning the property, Curtin said council would be offending the Official Plan which stressed the importance of preserving and enhancing the environment.

Teichman was given the opportunity to reply to the objections.

He dismissed suggestions that North Steel's operation is incompatible to surrounding land uses. He said the business exists now without any negative impact and the rezoning will not add anything new to the neighbourhood.

Teichman said there was no evidence that the plant's new location will result in a decline in property values.

He noted that three of the cottage associations which objected to the rezoning are located in areas that are quite a distance from the proposed site and said their response was a "knee-jerk" reaction.

Teichman took issue with the argument that the rezoning will be precedent setting. He said subsequent applications will be judged on their merits and if they have a negative impact they won't be approved.

In calling the concerns "unsubstantial", Teichman said it's easy for people to sit back and take pot-shots at an application.

As far as noise from the business, the lawyer said that boats and sea-planes on the lake will make more noise than North Steel.

Lloyd said the reason there have been no complaints against North Steel in the past is because it's located in another township so Minden council would have no authority to do anything about it and Snowdon council is not responsible to Minden ratepayers.

He said living close to the present operation he is subject to noise and traffic from the business.

After the public comments, each member of council made a brief statement in support of the rezoning application.

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said he looked at the proposal and read Lehman's report and "would have difficulty in not supporting it" for many of the same reason outlined by Teichman.

Berry said the nearest lake is over 1,500 feet away and there were no objections to the rezoning by either the Ministry of the Environment or Natural Resources, both of which had opportunity to comment on the application.

Sisson said that in Minden it's hard to put a business anywhere without being near a lake. Even if North Steel moved 20 miles away, he said it would still be close to one lake or another.

Councillor Mike Maher said that the township has been trying to establish an industrial park and has come close on a number of occasions.

"Everyone wants an industrial park except not in their backyard," said Maher. "We haven't found a backyard yet."

"None of us have the wisdom of Solomon or the vision of Nostradamus; but I support it," said Stevens.

Moore said that as reeve he supports the rezoning. He said Walter has the right to make application for the rezoning and the neighbours have the right to appeal the decision to the Ontario Municipal Board "to solve the problem for all of us."

To show their unity in support of Walter's application, Berry asked for the unanimous vote to be recorded. Several of the objectors indicated they would appeal the decision.

Final sewer report still concerns residents

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The final report on Dy-sart's proposed sewage treatment plant expansion has failed to address the concerns of the main opponents of the project.

The municipality received the report, prepared by Tot-ten, Sims and Hubicki, on October 23 and after studying the documents the pres-idents of two lake associa-tions say they will request an individual assessment for the project.

The Lake Kashagawiga-mog Association and the Canning Lake Property Owners Association have expressed concerns about the potential impact the sewer expansion will have on the lake chain.

The township has ap-plied to expand the existing sewage treatment plant in order to handle the effluent from a proposed sewer line extension to serve the resorts on the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog.

The first draft of the report on the expansion, called the class environmen-tal assessment, was released late in the summer. It out-lines the various options available to the municipal-ity to expand the sewage treatment facilities in Hali-burton Village.

The option favoured by the township is to expand the existing sewage treat-ment plant with an outflow pipe to the Drag River be-tween Head Lake and Grass Lake.

On the basis of the draft report, both the Canning and Kashagawigamog asso-ciations passed resolutions to request that the Minis-try of the Environment con-duct a detailed individual environmental assessment.

But in letters sent to the associations, Environment

Minister Jim Bradley said the requests were prema-ture because the project was still in its planning stages.

Bradley said the final stage of the planning pro-cess, the Environmental Study Report, is subject to review by the public for 30 days after it is presented to the township.

"If you believe your con-cerns have still not been adequately resolved, you may request that the pro-ject be 'bumped-up' to an individual environmental assessment," said the letter.

With the deadline for such a request being this Friday (Dec. 8), John Puffer, President of the Lake Kashaga-wigamog Association and Gary Kapac, President of the Canning Lake Property Owners Association, both say they intend to ask for a 'bump-up'.

"We believe it's too sen-sitive a situation to take a chance," Puffer said in an interview on Friday. He said there doesn't seem to be any guarantee in the Environmental Assessment Report that the proposed sewage treatment plant ex-pansion will not cause fur-ther deterioration of the water quality in the lake chain.

One of the opponents of the proposed expansion is Kevin Walters, a property owner on Canning Lake.

Walters is an engineer with some background in water quality and he says he believes the water quality in the Kashagawigamog Lake chain has deteriorated since the sewage treatment plant was first built in 1975.

Walters says he's con-cerned that an expansion of the plant will lead to further deterioration of the water quality.

Preferred option costly

He suggests that the effluent from the sewage treatment plant should be discharged into the Burnt River at Donald. He says the river will be less affected by the effluent than the lake.

The Ministry of the Environment also favoured the option of discharging the effluent into the Burnt River, but it was ruled out as being too costly.

The river runs through the Township of Snowdon, and Snowdon's municipal council has sent a letter to the Ministry opposing the idea of dumping the effluent into the Burnt River.

The Canning Lake association has asked a professor from Miami University in Ohio to evaluate the Environmental Assessment Report.

Walters says Dr. Orie Loucks had "considerable concerns" about the report and felt there was a broad margin of error in the findings. Walters says Loucks disagrees strongly with the report and says proceeding with the expansion is "not worth the risk because Kashagawigamog is a very important lake."

"We have no alternative but to request a bump-up," says Walters. "All sorts of things must be looked at."

Kapac says he doesn't believe the consultants have adequately addressed the environmental impact of the expansion. He says the association isn't opposed to the sewer plant expansion as long as the effluent is handled in a such way that it won't affect the quality of the lake.

The estimated cost of the expansion is $2.3 million based on construction in Fall 1990.

The Ministry of the Environment is funding the expansion at a rate of 81 per cent while the resorts that will eventually hook into the sewer expansion are paying the remaining 19 per cent.

The total cost of the expansion plus construction of the sewer line extension is $6.9 million, with the resorts paying about $1.5 million of that.

FIREPLACE INSERTS

Minden — 286-1088

Autoshop students Glenn Plooard and Craig McKnight check under the hood of a 1989 Oldsmobile that was donated to the high school by General Motors. Principal Peter Forgrave and teacher William Johnson accept the car from Don Popple of Curry Motors.

Be careful when using fireplace

by Doreen Hawman

The fireplace may not be an important supplier of heat in your home. In fact, it is often a source of energy loss, as it removes warmed combustion air from the home and sends it up the chimney.

However, the fireplace is an important symbol of warmth, security and the value of close ties with home, family and friends. This is particularly true during the holiday season. The fireplace may seem a refuge. But if neglected it can be a hazard. Wendy Butler, Manager of Consumer Services for the Canadian Standards Association, offers the following suggestions to help you avoid any problems that could occur from using your fireplace.

Once a year have the chimney flue cleaned by a qualified person; clean the firebox regularly; burn only three pieces of wood at one time (preferably hardwood); always close the firescreen when burning; if the fire is smoky, for health reasons find out why; if glass doors are in use, make sure there is sufficient combustion air to permit the fire to burn cleanly. Don't put the Christmas tree near the fireplace; don't hang Christmas stockings directly above the fire; don't burn Christmas wrapping or paper or trees in the fireplace; don't burn charcoal starters, gasoline or kerosene and don't rely on a quick look up the chimney to determine whether the flue is clean.

If you have any a question, require assistance completing a form or would just like to discuss a problem, be sure and contact your nearest Information Centre. In Haliburton the office is located in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Ave., and is open Monday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or 457-2733. Residents of Minden and surrounding areas are invited to contact the centre located in the Anson, Hindon and Minden Municipal Building, Milne St., which is open Mondays and Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or call 286-4100. Archie Stouffer addition still tops list of Haliburton's funding needs

The Haliburton County Board of Education has submitted its five-year capital forecast to the Ministry of Education.

Topping the list of the area's needs are additions to Minden's Archie Stouffer Elementary School and J.D. Hodgson in Haliburton.

Both these projects are considered to be immediate needs by the school board.

Business administrator

Jim Bradley presented the capital forecast to the board for trustees' approval at last Tuesday's meeting.

The five-year forecast, for 1991 to 1995, is almost unchanged from last year's request to the ministry.

For Archie Stouffer, the board is asking for money to build nine additional classrooms, one special education room and a gymnasium.

The request for J.D. Hodgson includes 12 new classrooms and one special education room.

The board is asking for funding for these schools to be granted in 1991, the first year of the forecast period.

The other major growth-related capital project requested by the board is two more classrooms at the high school to accommodate the increased number of elementary students now working their way through the system.

Repair and upgrading projects are also requested in the forecast. These include repairs to the roof and upgrading the electrical wiring at the Wilberforce school, repairs to the roof at the high school and the addition of an all-purpose room at the Cardiff school.

The Ministry of Education considers these forecasts when allocating its capital grants.

Last May the ministry announced its three-year $300 million capital allocations and Haliburton County was not on the list of recipients.

At that time Haliburton's Director of Education, Stuart Baker, told the board that it was doubtful anything would change to place Haliburton County higher on the list of priorities.

Most of the capital funding is being spent in southern Ontario where school boards are experiencing rapid growth.

The ministry has set aside a small amount of money for emergency situations, but it is unlikely that the local schools will meet the criteria to receive any of those funds.

Although the province has recently announced a $25 million increase to the capital funding, Bradley says that only amounts to the price of building one high school, and won't do much to improve the situation.

He estimates the combined cost of the Archie Stouffer and J.D. Hodgson additions to be about $5 million, of which provincial funding would account for 50 per cent.

Archie Stouffer is facing the most critical space shortage. The school is currently renting the old Dollo IGA building in Minden for classroom space.

The temporary re-zoning on the annex expires in less than two years, at which time the school board will have to re-apply if it still doesn't have adequate classroom space.

Committee formed to study Glebe Park

Dysart Council is forming a committee to oversee the landscaping of Glebe Park.

The Outdoor Design Company of Aurora has been looking at improving the park and landscape architect Dan Loukras has suggested that all parties who use the park be involved in the process.

"During the past few weeks I have been speaking with people directly involved with Glebe Park," Loukras wrote in a letter to the township. "All parties agreed that the different organizations should be amalgamated in order to have the park work towards its great potential."

The park is used by the Legion for the Blue Grass Festival, the Chamber of Commerce for the Highland Games and is the site of the Haliburton Museum.

Loukras suggested that a committee be formed with representatives from each of these organizations plus representatives from the community and a member from council.

"Once the committee decides the uses of the park, I would meet with them, receive the information and design the park accordingly," wrote Loukras. His fee for doing the design work is $2,500.

"It makes it difficult to design the park for its needs until all people involved can collaborate and air their ideas and concerns. Therefore, road construction and any other alterations on the park should be halted until the committee is formed," says the letter.

"There is a great future for Glebe Park. It is a park that should be used a minimum of 10 weekends per year, instead of two weekends per year. Its potential can mean an infinite asset to the community."

Residents agree that hunting, ATV's should not be uses of rail line that CNR should be encouraged to re-open its service.

The only matters on which there was full agreement was that there should be a ban on hunting and on motorized vehicles in the summer.

The main objection to the present status of the railway involved trespassing by hunters and snowmobilers. Jean Casey, who owns a quarry adjacent to the corridor, said trespassing is the main problem. She said snowmobilers, who had approved access to the corridor last winter, often strayed from the trail and onto her property. She said there is machinery and explosives stored on her property. "If something happens, we'll get sued," she said.

One woman said the trespassing has come to the point where she doesn't feel that she can do anything on her own property. Property owners can call the police, she said, but by the time they arrive it's too late, the trespassers have moved on.

Dysart Reeve Murray Fearry said the problem of trespassing is not unique to those who live along the corridor. "You don't have to be on the railway corridor for that," he said. "I had someone come onto my lawn, get stuck and pull out the shrubs for traction."

Kim Cowen told the committee that hunters had trespassed on her property during the deer season and killed several deer that she had been feeding. "There's not a deer left on our property," she said. "I felt like I led them to slaughter." She said the hunters knew they were on private property when they killed the deer, but ignored the fences to get at the "easy meat."

The question of why the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association (HCSA) was given a permit to use the corridor last winter saw plenty of play during this meeting. Paul Brohm strongly objected to County property being used exclusively by one group. He said he owns a snowmobile but was not allowed to ride it on the corridor without paying a fee to the HCSA.

"I say it's public property and to turn it over to one organization is wrong," said Brohm. "I have a $300 Skidoo and I can't afford to pay for a $55 pass." He said the property is owned by the county and he has been ordered off by snowmobilers.

Bob Vick agreed with Brohm's analysis. He said the HCSA is "getting something for nothing." The HCSA hasn't invested a cent into the corridor, he said, but it is allowed exclusive use during the winter.

Fearry justified the committee's decision to grant a land-use permit to the HCSA. The county bought the property so it could be used and the HCSA was the group best suited to utilize the corridor in its present state. "The reality is we have an organized club that can do the job," said Fearry. Snowmobiling is the only activity in the county that is funded by every municipality, he pointed out.

Fearry said it is not a certainty that the HCSA's permit will be renewed this winter. He said the committee will be negotiating with the HCSA and one thing they will be asking for is that a permit be granted to every adjoining property owner so they can go on the corridor without having to buy a trail pass.

Keith Schraeder, a property owner and member of the HCSA, suggested the committee could refuse to renew the land-use permit for one year. "Why don't you just ban snowmobiling for one year and see what happens?" he asked. "Everyone feels the snowmobilers have been given something. Let's see where the flood (of complaints) comes from, the snowmobile association or the businesses and resorts."

In respect to summer-time use of the corridor, the property owners asked that motorized vehicles be banned. Godfrey Tyler suggested that boulders be placed at all the access points to the corridor so cars and trucks would not be able to get access. He said these boulders could be removed each winter to allow access by snowmobiles.

Fearry said the committee is getting legal advice about implementing by-laws to regulate the use of the corridor. He said the committee should have some idea of what by-laws the County can implement within two or three weeks.

Fearry urged everyone in the room to put aside their personal interests and look to the long-term development of this recreational trail. "Let's not throw up road blocks," he said. "If it's good for the County and it's going to bring in tourists, shouldn't we look at it?"

Noting the dissenting views on the future development of this corridor, Fearry said it is going to be impossible to please everyone.

Without tolerance and co-operation from everyone involved, the development of a recreational trail will be impossible, he said. "If you can't satisfy anybody any of the time, it's a headache we don't need."

Minden Reeve Ray Moore said people have to view the corridor in the same way they view an arena. Like an arena, a recreational trail is not going to pay for itself, he said. However, it is a beautiful piece of property that should be exploited by the County.

Gallery is decked out with Christmas spirit

The Agnes Jamieson Gallery is all decked out for Christmas at the thanks to the support of our board members. We glow in silver and blue, and have, I am sure, the first 'May Pole' you will see in December. This pole is even sprouting stuffed animals in various shapes and sizes for that wee one on your shopping list.

We invite you to come to our gallery and browse. We suggest you allow at least an hour, as we are brimming with handcrafted gifts to delight everyone on your Christmas list. This is your opportunity to continue the old time spirit of Christmas with a handcrafted gift from Haliburton County artists.

The board members and Alice Don wish you and yours a very merry Christmas, and thank you for your support during our 1989 Exhibitions.

Santa's parade a huge success

The guest of honour has to be impressed with his reception Saturday as close to 50 creative floats ushered him past several hundred viewers in the first Santa Claus parade in Minden.

The parade, one of the longest and most colourful ever held in Minden, took well over an hour to wind its way from the starting point to the finish at the Curling Club. After the first float reached at the Curling Club, it was another 45 minutes before Santa and the final float arrived.

Lions Bill Stackhouse and Brian Moore, who chaired the Lions parade committee, said they were overwhelmed by the level of support for this parade from the community. Virtually every service club, the Legion and the municipality donated in some way to make it a success.

Moore said he was a little worried in the morning that the brisk, blustery weather might prevent many from coming out. Fortunately, though, the temperature climbed and the wind slowed in time for the start of the festive parade. Main Street, from the corner of Peck Street to well beyond the Gull River Bridge, saw crowds of enthusiastic children, parents and grandparents anxiously awaiting the arrival of the jolly man with his snowy white beard.

Stackhouse said he was impressed with the quality of the entries in this parade. It was clear that a lot of thought and preparation went into the creation of each entry.

The Minden Bible Church 'Hi-life' float took first place in the Community Service category. The participants in this entry received the Cliff Lacey Memorial Award.

Lacey, a former Lion who died a few years ago, was well known for his dedication to the community, often played the role of Sant Claus at parties throughout the area. His wife, Jean, made the presentation to the Minden Bible Church at the fire hall following the parade.

Atoms beat Beaverton

by Linda Hopkins

On Saturday, November 25, Minden's Atom Tri-County League faced off against Beaverton for a return match. This time the boys were well armed and really prepared to do justice as Beaverton, so far this year, has been the only team to beat the boys.

In order to start things off fast and set the mood, Minden's defenceman Donald Todd waited for 1:20 into the first period before he picked up the puck, again deep in his own end, and travelled the full length to tip the first one in. The mood was set then and Raymond Ranson, assisted by defenceman Rob Camelon, closed the period with a 2-0 lead.

The second period resembled the first with the action being centred mainly again in Beaverton's end. Nathan Stephenson picked up a goal off the stick of Chuck Hopkins and Ranson chalked up another one from a pass by Sheamus Donnery.

That gave the boys a 4-0 lead. However, Beaverton squeaked two past goalie Ashley Walker before the end of the third.

The boys played good strong hockey, which shows what they can do with a little effort. As the opposing teams are defeated, you can be assured they will be practising hard in hope of coming back to defeat Minden before the end of the season. Keep us the good work boys and practise hard too.

On the other hand, we arrived in Fenelon last Monday night under inclement weather conditions and managed to put a few smiles on their faces. Their manager stated they had been after our team, as they had yet to beat Minden and they sure did their stuff. They walked away 3-0 victors and I think coach Jim said it all in the dressing room.

Minden sinks Lakefield

by Marlene Mestroni

Minden's Pee Wee hockey team took to the ice on Tuesday, November 28 at the Lakefield Arena.

In the first minute and a half of play, Minden forced the puck into Lakefield's end and Andrew Sisson hit his mark giving Minden the first goal of the game. With 6:46 left in the first period, Damon Smith scored Minden's second goal assisted by Andrew Sisson. Minden's third goal came with 1:57 left in the second period scored by Damon Smith and assisted by Andrew Sisson.

Scott Dedman, Minden's goalie, prevented Lakefield's numerous shots from entering Minden's net and with just seven seconds left in the third period, Andrew Sisson scored the final goal ending the game 4-0 for Minden.

All the players on the team deserve praise for their contributions to the team win. Way to go team! Many thanks to Barry Smith, the team Coach, and Bob Robinson, the team Manager.

This was the ninth game the Tri-County Pee Wee's have played so far this season with three wins and six losses.

Look for cardinals and doves during the Christmas season

Since the season for Christmas shopping, Christmas lights and Christmas trees is here again it's also time for the 23rd annual Minden Christmas Bird Count. This year's count is coming up on Saturday, December 16. I know that a great many of you already have well-stocked feeders with a regular parade of hungry visitors from first light in the morning to dusk. Many thanks to those of you who called last year to tell us about the birds you saw.

Species of particular interest which might appear at feeders this year included mourning doves (Kinmount? Minden?) and cardinals (rumours of two in Minden). House finches are speaking northward in Ontario. They reached Fenelon Falls a year ago, so might be expected in this area any time. They look much like purple finches, but are more orangy red rather than the raspberry red of the purple finch and are flatter on top of their heads. Another species to watch for this year is the boreal chickadee. These birds are very similar to black-capped chickadees, but have a brown cap and a slower more nasal call. This year they have been moving south from their normal home in northern Ontario and may be with flocks of black-capped chickadees.

Red-breasted nuthatches and the males have a rusty breast almost as bright as that of a robin. When there are several together they are quite vocal calling back and forth to one-another. They often accompany chickadee flocks but sometimes travel in their own groups. Gray jays like suet or fat. They seem to appear most often at feeders in the Kinmount area, but also appear north of Minden and around Gelert.

During the last two Decembers an adult bald eagle has stopped briefly at Sandy Bay at the north end of Gull Lake. Maybe it will appear again this year. At least one common loon was still present on Gull Lake in late November and another at Mountain Lake. If you know of any loons, or other waterfowl which are still around on December 16, please let us know. Also of interest are any hawks or owls and any birds which would ordinarily have gone south by now such as song sparrows, white-throated sparrows, blackbirds, brown thrashers, flickers, robins, orioles, or juncos.

Pigeons and house sparrows are birds that used to be more common in the area, but are now scarce. If you have either in your barn or at your feeder, we would be very interested in hearing about them. However, the numbers of hairy and downy woodpeckers, white-breasted nuthatches, black-capped chickadees an evening grosbeaks visiting your feeder are equally important to record. Information as to the numbers of these more widespread species all across North America helps scientists determine how acid rain and other forms of pollution are affecting wildlife.

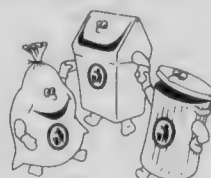

The 15-mile diameter count circle includes Minden, Kinmount, Gelert, Lochlin, Moore Falls, Miner's Bay and all the lakes, rivers, fields and forest in between. If you have any interesting birds in your area, Ron would be keenly interested in hearing about them even before the day of the count.

If you would like to take part in this year's count by joining one of the groups checking a particular area of the count circle, phone Ron Pittaway (286-3471) or Pearl Barry (286-1189) by December 15. You would be most welcome to come along. If you'd like to be involved by reporting the birds coming to your feeder, or in your neighbourhood, keep track of the numbers of each species seen on the 16th and phone during the day on the 17th.

Last year's census added two new species never recorded on any of the previous 21 counts, Canada goose and American robin. We expect this year's count to be even more exciting.

Come join us!

Compiler.

Seniors delight in Christmas carols, bingo and Happy Hour

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

Another week has slipped by, I no sooner get one column written when it's time to send another. Thursday was our regular Tea Party provided by the ladies of Minden Baptist Church. The tea was delicious and Mrs. Howard played a guitar and sang some Christmas carols. We thank them and really appreciate their coming, the lunch and music.

Thursday evening we had bingo with Nick Fomenko calling again and his daughter to help. His coming is enjoyed very much and thank you Nick.

On November 18, 1989 Mary Burgess and Margaret Sisson had their birthday and on the 23rd Mable Buttery and on the 24 Mary McKelvey. Congratulations to all you ladies and hope you all had a happy birthday.

Saturday afternoon Terry came down and took me for a drive, via South Lake to Haliburton. We visited Norma at the Gift Shop and went to Terry's and saw the tape of Kevin's graduation. I was home for dinner.

Friday was Happy Hour. Bill Payne and George Smith were the entertainers with Doris at the piano. There was a good attendance and all enjoyed the afternoon. Thank you very much Bill, George, Doris, Don and Ellen Holden also Linda.

Friday evening, Bill, George, Eldon and Don came to play and sing for us in the main lounge. We are always happy to have them. Everyone enjoys their entertainment and thanks them sincerely.

Sunday night Rev. John Burgess held the chapel service. There was a good number out to the service.

Our last two outing plans for the bus have been very disappointing. We had planned to go to Haliburton to see the dress rehearsal of the play "Barefoot in the Park" but the tail lights on the bus were not working. For some time we looked forward to a bus ride to Lindsay to shop for Christmas. When we were all loaded and started out, Doris had trouble getting the bus to go forward. She managed to get it to a garage, the mechanic said there was something wrong and advised Doris not to take the trip to Lindsay. So this year's shopping trip is off for this year.

Doris stopped in Minden and we had our lunch and visited stores near us for an hour and then came home. We certainly need a new bus, it's the only way many of us can get out.

Evelyn Coleman came Monday from 1 to 2 o'clock for Bible Study. Thank you Evelyn very much.

Monday night Ruth and Allan Rice showed two movies. One was "Point Pelee" and the other "South American Jungle". They were very interesting. Thank you Ruth and Allan for an enjoyable evening.

Tuesday morning Rev. D. Gilby of Kinmount Anglican Church had the service and communion. In the afternoon Mrs. Rennick came for a hymn sing. She sang several beautiful hymns and Grace Coburn led the sing along. We sincerely thank them both. We have truly had every kind of weather the last twenty-four hours.

Ada Lewis is home from the Civic Hospital and is doing well. Keep it up Ada. Wednesday evening Caroline Jones had the misfortune to fall and was taken to the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald York visited Verna Jarvis early in the week.

RIDE teams will be out in force

The annual festive season R.I.D.E. program began on November 29, and runs until January 3, 1990 in the Counties of Haliburton, Victoria, Peterborough and Northumberland.

This year, municipal and regional police forces across the province are joining with the Ontario Provincial Police in a co-operative R.I.D.E. program. Locally the municipal forces of Peterborough, Lindsay, Cobourg, Port Hope and Lakefield will be participating.

Each of these departments shares a mutual concern for the safety of the motoring public, and all are striving to reduce the risk of death and injury on area roadways, by increasing the possibility of apprehending the drink-driving driver.

Alcohol remains a significant contributing factor in fatal motor vehicle accidents across the province. In 1989, one-third of this district's fatal accidents involved drinking drivers.

Motorists should expect to encounter R.I.D.E. checkpoints during their holiday travels. With this in mind, party-goers are encouraged to travel by taxi, public transit or with a "designated driver."

Santa gets warm greeting in Minden, Parade crowd braves cool weather

The Haliburton Equestrian Club took second place in the Community Service Category and the Minden Beavers and Cubs took third.

With Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs aboard their float, Westside Jug City took first place in the category for Commercial entries. The entry from CANLOGS and Minden House took second prize and Campbell's Florists was third.

Following the parade, Santa came back to the firehall where he had an opportunity to meet all the children, hear their Christmas wishes and give them all some pre-Christmas treats. All the kids had their pictures taken with Santa and the prints were given out shortly afterwards at Leon's Video. For those who didn't get a chance to pick up their complementary photos, they will be available from Leon's all this week.

Some tips on preserving valuable documents

by Joel Levis

The Haliburton County Public Library regularly receives requests for information on the best way to preserve family documents and other memorabilia. The following is the first in a series of basic suggestions made by the Northeast Document Conservation Centre (NEDCC), Andover, Massachusetts which can help you to take the first steps on your own. NEDCC specializes in preservation techniques for old maps and other items of value.

Basically, the best protection for your books, papers, photographs and prints is a safe environment: moderate temperature and relative humidity; clean air and good air circulation; no natural or fluorescent light; and, good housekeeping.

Avoid powerful sources of heat, damp and pollution. Don't store your valuable books, photos and paper in attics or basements or near water sources like washing machines or bathrooms. Think about what is in the room above your heirlooms, too.

Heat causes damage. Don't hang valuable objects over radiators, heat-producing appliances or the fireplace. Books that you may want to read twenty years from now should not be stored on the mantel, the window sill or the radiator.

Light causes fading and other damages. Keep photos and art (prints, watercolours, and other works on paper) in the dark as much as possible. Don't put valuable books and paper where they'll get direct sun or bright light of any kind. Hallways or other rooms without windows are best. Install and use shades and heavy curtains where you cannot avoid windows.

When storing photos in an album, use "photo" or "archival" mounting corners (available from photography suppliers or stamp dealers), not glued or self-sealing plastic which can stick to or react with your pictures.

Letters, clippings and other documents you want to preserve should be stored unfolded in buffered folders. Folding and unfolding breaks envelopes and cause damage as items are removed and replaced. If you cannot find buffered folders, then use a sheet of buffered paper at the front and back of the folder.

If you want to keep a clipping from the newspaper for the long term, have it photocopied onto buffered paper. The copy will last much longer than the original.

To remove staples or old paper clips from documents (especially if they're rusty), slide a piece of stiff plastic, i.e. polyester or polypropylene, under the fastener of both sides of the document. Slide the paper clip off the plastic; as alternate suggestions, use a pair of tweezers or a thin knife to bend the edges of the staple up and pry it out. The plastic will protect the paper from abrasion and your tools.

Staple pullers will tear the paper.

Indoor pollution is a growing problem in energy conscious spaces with good insulation and causes rapid damage to paper. The glass or plastic glazing of a frame will keep pollutants and dirt away, and edges will not be damaged by handling or tacks.

If you want your wedding pictures (or photos of an event) to last for your grandchildren, have the photographer take a roll of black-and-white photos. Video, colour slides and most colour prints have a limited life-expectancy.

Use a museum quality (full "acid-free" mat and frame) to display any valuable photo or artwork - even children's drawings.

If you would like a fact sheet containing the information found in this series, please call the Haliburton County Public Library at (705) 457-2241. We cannot assist you with specific problems but we can probably refer you to someone who can help.

Workshop encourages youth to focus on forests

The Ministry of Natural Resources would like to see Ontario's youth focus on forests. So, toward that end, the province's first Focus on Forests leader workshop was hosted by the Leslie M. Frost Natural Resources Centre near Dorset on November 2-4.

The 95 teachers and MNR personnel that gathered at the Frost Centre spent two days visiting forestry operations, running forest survival simulations and role-playing forest managers in order to be certified as Focus on Forests leaders.

Focus on Forests is a new package of curriculum support materials that is intended to foster an awareness of and sensitivity to forests among Ontario's youth. The package was developed jointly by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources, Forestry Canada and the Ministry of Education and funded through the Forest Resource Development Agreement.

The materials consist of two guidebooks of forest-related educational activities for kindergarten to grade 12 students. The activities were written by teachers and professional writers to dovetail with the Ministry of Education's most recent curriculum guidelines. They cover a broad range of topics and embrace such diverse subject areas as mathematics and physical education. Each activity has been extensively field-tested in classrooms and outdoor education centres across Ontario.

The Focus on Forests guidebooks will be available to teachers and youth group leaders through one-day user workshops led by a resource team consisting of a professional educator and an MNR employee with experience in forestry. The participants of these workshops will, in turn, use the guides with their groups or classes to increase their appreciation and understanding of forests.

Demand for the manuals and accompanying workshops is expected to be such that two more leader workshops are already planned for the near future and a large number of the one-day user workshops are anticipated. More information can be obtained by contacting the Forestry Education Coordinator, Ministry of Natural Resources, Forest Resources

Group, 258 Queen Street East, P.O. Box 1000, Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario P6A 5N5.

New boss at Lochlin home

Haliburton Retirement and Convalescent Centre in Lochlin (formerly Lochlin Retirement Home) is now under the administration and care of Ms. Joanne Munneke, R.N.

Munneke has exciting plans for the facility including a 16-room addition and expanded services and care for the retired and persons convalescing. This service can relieve some pressure on hospitals when beds are being occupied by patients requiring minimal care.

Munneke says she has noticed a great need for this service in the area. "We are small at the present time, but we can add some relief to this situation," she said.

Munneke, pronounced

"Munneek", graduated in nursing in Montreal and worked in Western Canada and California before moving to Haliburton. She was employed in the surgical intensive care unit at Sunnybrook Medical Centre in Toronto.

Cold weather masks make breathing a little easier

When cold winter winds blow life becomes even more difficult for people with emphysema, chronic bronchitis or asthma.

When they leave a warm environment and inhale that first lungful of icy air, their bronchial tubes can go into spasm, causing painful breathing difficulties and an overwhelming sense of suffocation.

For many, there is only one solution: stay home until spring.

The Lung Association has another solution, however. The cold weather mask, a light mask that protects the wearer from the full effect of that cold air.

This small mask can be worn while walking to the car, into the mall or wherever a short time outside is required, and then tucked out of sight while not needed.

Cold weather masks are available at The Lung Association office, 12 King St. Lindsay on Tuesday or Wednesday mornings or by calling the office at 324-6497. The charge for three masks is $2.

End of year a busy time for Legion

The months of November and December are always a busy time for Legion Branches. Branch 636 is no exception, what with Remembrance Ceremonies and parades, Honours and Awards banquet, attending new Branch Charter presentation, Grey Cup Funday, planning a New Year's Eve party and participating in Zone sports activities. These have kept many of us hopping at a fast pace.

We are proud of the Poppy Campaign this Branch conducted in November under the management of Comrade Bruce Porter. His committee comprised of Comrade Phil Graham who tastefully decorated windows on Main Street with World War I and II memorabilia, Comrade Roy McDonald who organized the poppy sellers and Comrades Mel Robertson and Omar Legere in the canvassing and Reg Munns who was active in placing Poppy boxes in many locations. Other Comrades also worked diligently at their assigned tasks. To you and to all those who donated and who bought a poppy we offer our sincere thanks. A total of $4,988.00 was raised which will be used for Veteran welfare and aid. "We will remember them."

On the evening of November 11, we held our first Honours and Awards banquet. Comrade Gladys Wruth and her committee of ladies served a delicious roast beef dinner. This was followed by a brief address from Past Zone Commander Stan Moore who told us that this Branch has grown up and we are now taking our part in the Zone as an adult Legion Branch is expected to do. Comrade Stan awarded the following

For Your Service

by Dave McAdam, Legion Branch 636

Past Officer Medals: Anthony Samarillo - Past President; Aulis Orpana - 1st Vice-President; David McAdam - 2nd Vice-President; Ann McAdam - Secretary 1988-89; Ann McAdam - Treasurer 1987-88; Clifford Green - Treasurer 1988-89. In addition 2-40 year, 1-30 year, 1-25 year, 4-20 year, 1-15 year, 7-10 year and 7-5 year pins were presented to Comrades for their participation and years of service in the Legion. Space does not allow for the complete list.

Our Grey Cup Funday was a success financially for the Legion and happily for the members and guests who were there. The game was exciting, the food delicious, prizes were plentiful and the fellowship was great.

We are no longer the newest Branch in Canada. We wish to congratulate Oshawa Branch 637 who put on a beautiful Charter Night at the Kinsman Hall in Oshawa on November 17. They are known as "Sir William Stephenson Branch". This Canadian gentleman was renowned as being principally instrumental in establishing the Allied Secret Service network during World War II. He was nicknamed "Intrepid" by Sir Winston Churchill.

In sports, we are sending two curling teams to Lindsay to participate in the Zone bonspiel. We wish these teams good curling and good luck.

Please note that the branch will be closed on Monday, December 25 and Tuesday, December 26. Also members with draw tickets to sell please complete your sales and get the stubs and money turned into the bar as soon as possible.

Members please note the date of our next General Meeting is December 6. In conjunction with the meeting we are having a Pot Luck supper starting at 6 p.m. Salads, casseroles, pickles and buns - let's all be there and enjoy.

The festive season is almost upon us. You may have noticed the Branch and the lounge have been festooned accordingly with lights, tinsel, trees and the like. We are planning to co-operate with our L.A. to again invite the children of our membership to participate in a Christmas party complete with Santa, lots of goodies, gifts and games. This is on December 10.

For the adults, we are announcing our first New Year's Eve Party. We are planning to serve delicious Hors d'oeuvres throughout the evening. Dancing will be to the excellent music of our favourite D.J. Nick Rhodes. In addition, there will be prizes and party favours. All this and a drive home service for those who have partied a little too much will be available for the price of $15 each. The tickets are for sale at the bar with a limit of 80 to be sold. Sales are limited to Legion members and their guests. We suggest you obtain your tickets early.

Notes from Staunworth Court

I use this quote as I address November 11—Remembrance Day.

"It is good to pause occasionally and give thanks for the privilege of living here together in our free and beautiful land."

The Hon. P. Trudeau
To our boys who did not return from war and we who remain—never again.

November meeting was carried on as usual. Our Christmas party was discussed and decided to share it with our Senior resident neighbours. We hope to enjoy our party on December 13. Holly C., our president, and Lillian D. will co-operate with the other committees to make this a success and a happy one.

To our new resident Norma Davies, may you enjoy your new home and new neighbours.

Shirley Vank has decided to make her home with her daughter in Norland. We wish you well, Shirley.

We are pleased to have Mary and Alex Stevenson from Staunworth Terrace come to enjoy euchre with us as well as Jerry, Ruby, and Eleanor.

Lillian Davidson is back doing her volunteer work at the Curling Arena. She enjoys it very much.

Staunworth Court was saddened recently by the passing of one of our residents, Melissa Hampson. Melissa was a faithful volunteer in many projects undertaken by our Club and shall be missed by us all. Our sincere sympathy goes out to her family and friends.

Life is full of shadows, but the sunshine makes them all.

To our November birthday lady, Ivy Angliss, who is at present in Lindsay hospital. Our wishes are two-fold. Get well soon and may your special day be filled with Hope and Good Health.

Many of our residents are on the sick list; namely: Ivy Ingliss in Lindsay Hospital, Sylvia Howard is in Minden Hospital, Jean Marsh has returned from Lindsay Hospital after surgery, Bill Donnelly is to undergo heart surgery at St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto.

Harry Cowan was confined to his bed for a few days after a serious weak spell. We do wish you all our sincere get well wishes for a speedy recovery.

Since completing this column, we just heard of the passing of Mrs. Eleanor Ferris on Friday, December 1. Our thoughts and prayers go out to her family and friends.

A quote for our Youth:
"A pilot cannot direct his plane unless it is moving."

New good luck is in the new year ahead as you make your plans and form your careers.

May we all take time long enough to listen as the silence of this Holy Season comes upon each of us. Merry Christmas to one and all.

Residents of Staunworth Court.

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

Funding for homemakers

Recent improvements in Homemaker funding will especially help rural areas like Victoria - Haliburton, M.P.P. John Eakins says.

"Now that travel time will be financially assisted, it means that Homemakers in rural areas won't be penalized because their clients are geographically far apart," Eakins says.

Under terms of the announcement made recently by Community and Social Services Minister Charles Beer, Homemakers will record what their travelling time is in terms of hours. If the Homemaker works for 30 hours every week, but travels about five hours each week between clients, that Homemaker will be paid with John Eakins, M.P.P.

People and Places

for 35 hours, instead of only 30.

Another big advantage is the increase in wages. The average hourly wage will be increased by about 30 per cent, from $6.00 per hour to $7.85 per hour. The compensation package also ensures that homemakers who provide publically funded services will be paid a minimum of $7.25 per hour. All of the changes are retroactive to September 1, 1989.

"Visiting Homemakers made an outstanding contribution in places all over Victoria and Haliburton Counties. I have personally met with our local Homemakers and I know the good work they do. I am very pleased we were able to boost up the financial commitments and reassure all Homemakers that their concerns have been heard," Eakins says.

In order to provide for future training for Homemakers, an additional $2.2 million has been set aside. The total funding package amounts to $28.9 million.

The compensation package is part of the $88.8 million committed by the provincial government last May to improve the salaries of front-line workers in Ontario's community agencies.

CARD OF THANKS

My thanks to Dr. Harriman and Dr. Campbell on my surgery. Also to the nurses and staff on the 5th floor, Hutchinson Wing, at the Civic Hospital, Peterborough for the care after surgery. Also thanks for all the cards, calls, flowers, and beautiful fruit and goodie baskets at the hospital and at home, and Cupe 1960. Special thanks to my husband (Bob) and to Muriel, for their extra help.

IN MEMORIAM

AUSTIN, EDNA. In loving memory of my wife Edna who passed away December 8, 1988.

Two tired eyes are sleeping,
Two willing hands are still.
For one who suffered far too much
Is resting in God's will.
You never said goodbye to me,
For perhaps it's just as well.
I never could have said goodbye
To one I loved so well.

Your loving husband Jack, sons Murray & Bill and all Grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM

WEBERT, DOROTHY MAUDE. In cherished memory of my beloved wife who passed away December 2, 1988.

It is sad to walk the road alone,
Instead of side by side.
But to all there comes a moment
When the ways of life divide;
You gave me years of happiness.
Then came sorrow and tears,
But you left me beautiful memories
I will treasure through the years.
Those we love we never lose
For always they will be Loved, remembered, treasured
Always in our memory.

Forever remembered, forever missed, your husband Henry, sons Gerald and Paul, daughter-in-laws Maureen and Margaret, Granddaughters Kathryn, Karen, Lindsay, Heather and Cynthia.

IN MEMORIAM

DOLLO, JOSEPH WILLIAM. In loving memory of a dear Father and Grandfather who passed away December 4, 1988.

You're not forgotten father
Nor shall you be,
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.

Sadly missed and never forgotten Joe, Louise, Angie, Rose and families.
